COUNTY TIPPERARY

SECTION C: BARONY OF OWNEY & ARRA

VOLUME 5: PARISH OF KILMARATH

(a) Kilnarath

(b) Ballinahinch

Compiled by Denise Foulkes

Orrond Historical Society, 1986.

INTRODUCTION

KILNARATH civil parish lies in the barony of Owney and Arra and in the Archdiocese of Cashel. It was already united to Kilvellane when the Civil Survey was taken circa 1650.

The rather overgrown graveyard is situated about 2 miles from Newport - one turns left at the new graveyard on the outskirts of the village coming from Nenagh via Shallee cross roads, and then left at next cross roads.

The ruins of the 15th century parish church still survive. Inside this are several graves including a large vault belonging to the Madder family. In the grounds is a large demolished vault belonging to the Waller family of Castlemaller. It is empty but shows some very fine brickwork. There are a number of headstones dating from early 1600s .

The oldest headstone is to a Malachy McGrath who died either 1727 or 1747. There is an interesting headstone to a Patrick I - a writing master and Surveyor who died in 1785. Unfortunately some mortar has been mixed on this stone obliterating the surname.

All the headstones that could be located have been copied though some were quite deeply buried so a few others could have been missed.

Where it has proved impossible to read the whole of an inscription the missing words are indicated thus - - -. If a date is in question it is recorded thus ? 1850 ? 1856 with the more likely date first.

Denise Foulkes, 1986.
