Oh Ireland isn't it sad you look
The oldest of the Nations
The Surgeons knife at your gentle breast
And you bound in Proclamations

" They are slaves who fear to speak For the fallen & the weak;
They are slaves who will not choose Hated scoffing & abuse,
Rather than in silence shrink
From the truth they needs must think They are slaves who dare not be

This not a time for class greed or class pride, class grievances or class privileges, it is a time for Irishmen in the language of the Kaiser, who declared he knew no class in the Fatherland only Germans; so we Irishmen should only know Irishmen no matter from what part of Ireland they come, and know all foreigners who wish to enslave us by the common name of enemies.
