

BALLYCAHILL GRAVESTONE INSCRIPTIONS

The ruined church in Ballycahill cemetery has been disused since the mid 1700s. The pointed doorway leading to the nave is still intact. Another doorway with a flat lintel was the entrance to a former priest's residence attached to the church.

Headstones (1 – 7) are in this priest's residence. Headstones (8 – 40), are in the nave. Headstones (41 – 52) are outside the east gable of the church. The numbering in the cemetery then continues by row starting at the eastern end adjacent to the public road.
